

E-LEARNING

Unlimited training for a flat fee

Would you like to be able to make unlimited use of the E-learning module for a flat fee? You can! All employees in your organisation will be able to follow an unlimited number of E-learning training sessions. In addition, all basic E-learning courses are available to you free of charge.

Normec
Foodcare Online

Improve Quality. Reduce Risk.

All your employees' knowledge is up to date

The E-learning module provides you with an online E-learning platform for a total training scheme. This allows you to train all employees of your organisation in a very convenient and flexible way in various course subjects and in any preferred language. You will be able to design, schedule and follow E-learning courses all within one application. As a quality or human resources department, you will have continual insight into competencies that have been and are yet to be achieved. This provides you with insight into the employability of employees for various positions at any given moment.

Unique in the food sector: all-in-one application

LMS (Learning Management System) and LCMS (Learning Content Management System) are integrated within the E-learning module. This means that following E-learning courses, the complete administration of course participants (including the results of external training courses) and the development of course material all take place within the same environment.

Complete online training scheme

You can add, invite and monitor course participants yourself at any time and you have instantaneous insight into the certificates and competencies obtained by each employee via the competency matrix. You can also add certificates and competencies from external training courses, so that you have one complete overview for your entire organisation.

Design your own E-learning courses

You can design an unlimited number of E-learning training courses in your own house style with the online editor. Not only food-related topics are suitable for E-learning, but also health and safety, environmental issues and CSR. Even YouTube videos or animated images are possible.

Customized courses

In cooperation with Normec Training & Education, we provide ready-made Cedeo-approved E-learning courses in any language that meet the requirements of standards such as the BRC, IFS and FSSC

Advantages of the E-learning module

- ✓ Design your own E-learning courses and/or opt for ready-made or customized training courses
- ✓ Follow courses anytime, anywhere
- ✓ Certificate is immediately available after passing a course
- ✓ Invite course participants by automated e-mail or letter
- ✓ Immediate overview via online planning
- ✓ Match the educational level and language of employees
- ✓ LMS and LCMS within one application
- ✓ Immediate insight into employee employability via the automated competency and document matrix
- ✓ Option to outsource management to temporary employment agency/agencies via a unique rights framework
- ✓ Import option for results from external training courses (e.g. FAFS or on-the-job training)
- ✓ Convert documents from your online handbook directly into E-learning

"E-learning is ideal especially for new employees who are coming from an employment agency. The employment agency sees to it that the agency workers have followed the E-learning course before they come to us."

KAM-manager, Group of Butchers

22000 standard. Customized E-learning courses in your own corporate identity are also possible.

New: virtual tours

The virtual tours option allows you to breathe even more life into your training courses. Employees experience the 360-degree images of their own production environment, how they can put into practice such things as house rules, work instructions, etc. This not only makes following courses more fun, but also much more effective and practice oriented.

Link with HRM or ERP systems
Are you already using your own HRM and/or ERP system? We offer the option to link up with external systems.

Check out the demo →